Student/Parent Contract:

The Advanced Placement Academy is designed as a rigorous program to challenge and to prepare students for college success. The classes and extracurricular expectations help students not only develop writing and thinking skills, but also help in time management and self-discipline.

Furthermore, as stated by the College Board, AP classes help students “earn college credit and advanced placement [and also] stand out in the admission process.” Recognizing this rigor, Rutherford County Schools rewards students with an extra quality point beyond the one allotted for honors level classes.

In order to receive the added benefits, students and parents must subscribe to the following tenets:

- Academic rigor and teacher expectations will be higher in AP classes than in Honors. Since AP classes lead to possible college credits, the course work must parallel college work.
- Enrolling in an AP class requires increased student independence and a high degree of responsibility.
- The rigorous curriculum requires more effort and homework. (There can be hours of homework per AP class.) The pace of the class is faster, covering more content and covering it in greater depth. Students must complete all assignments at assigned times to reap the educational benefits of the class. (Plagiarizing or submitting work not personally completed is considered cheating.)
- Meetings beyond the normal class meetings are often required of an AP student. These meetings may be tutorial or collaborative in nature.
- Service hours are required and must be completed at each grade level.
- Participation and commitment in at least one school-sponsored organization.
- Trip opportunities are available, but not required.
- Students are required to take all enrolled AP course exams.
- A total of 2 Honors and 6 AP courses must be taken.
- Attendance at AP Academy Evening Events; Minimum of one each year.
- Maintain a 4.0 GPA.

We, the undersigned student and parent/guardian(s), understand, and have carefully read and discussed the requirements, the accelerated pace, and the rigorous expectations of enrolling in an intensive/accelerated AP curriculum and agree to honor this contract.
